Singer, guitarist, composer and songwriter, bandleader: Brygada Kryzys, TILT, Fotoness. An erudite, a graphic artist, a man of many passions.*

A poet who has described the world of dying communism and emerging capitalism, and recently, in the turmoil of the pandemic, given us hope that it will be beautiful again:

This show is the first in a series of concerts by Tomek Lipiński, who - still young - decided to end his stage career. It is also - belatedly, due to the pandemic - a celebration of the 40th anniversary of his artistic work and the anniversary of the studio debut of Brygada Kryzys. (This is also a tribute to Robert Brylewski, who died almost five years ago).

From the lyrics he wrote or simply sang - at the end of the communist era as the leader of Tilt and in the Third Republic of Poland as a commercially successful soloist - one could compile an anthology of rock's commandments, prohibitions and life advice. Many of them - written in simple and blunt language, never vulgar - have gone down in the history of the Polish language.

As a singer-songwriter and a reliable performer, Lipiński has never ceased to be an amateur who loves his job: he plays simple chords and sings phrases as powerful as one-liners from Hollywood blockbusters.

*He was also marketing director of BMG Poland (1993), editor-in-chief of "Aktivist" (2000). He played several supporting roles, and composed music for several documentaries and film songs (including "Psy 2", "Słodko-gorzki", for which he received an award at the 21st Polish Film Festival in Gdynia in 1996, and "Reich", all directed by Władysław Pasikowski). Vice-Chairman of the Board of the Music Export Poland Foundation.
